[Words of Greeting]

Good afternoon family and friends,

We are gathered here today not to witness the beginning of what will be,
but rather what already is.

We do not create this marriage, thier love for one another is already sincere.

We can and do however celebrate with WILLIAM DANIEL BERNSTEIN and RACHAEL LESLIE ALLEN,

and their families,

this wonderful and joyous occurrence,

that has already taken place in their lives.

Should there be anyone who has cause why this couple should not be united in marriage they must speak now, or, forever hold their peace.

So let the Ceremony begin.

Who is it that brings this women to be married

[father of bride] (I do)

thank you You may be seated.

WILLIAM and RACHAEL, I would ask that you both remember to treat yourself, and each other, with respect, and remind yourself often of what brought you here together today.

Give the highest priority to the tenderness, gentleness, and kindness, that your marriage deserves.

When frustration and difficulty assail your marriage
--- as they do to every relationship at one time or another --- focus on what still seems right between you, not only the part that seems wrong.

This way, when clouds of trouble hide the sun in your lives,
and you lose sight of it for the moment,
you can remember--- that the sun is still there.

And if each of you will take responsibility-- for the quality of your life together,-- it will be marked by abundance, and delight.

WILLIAM, do you take RACHAEL to be your wife? ("I DO")

Do you promise to love, honor, cherish, and protect her, forsaking all others, and holding only onto her? ("I DO")

RACHAEL, do you take WILLIAM to be your husband? ("I DO")

Do you promise to love, honor, cherish, and protect him, forsaking all others, and holding only onto him? ("I DO")

[Blessing of the Rings -]

You have chosen to exchange rings as a symbol of your love.

These rings come in the shape of a circle--

--reminding you--

love is a continuous journey:

there is no beginning

and there is no end

to love.

The substance from which these rings are made of symbolize purity

- this is a new beginning in your life with one another.

Exchanging rings reminds you that you no longer live for your self-alone,

but for each other as well.

at this time I would like you to accept,

and exchange these rings,

placing them on the third finger--

of the left hand--

of one another.

[The Vows]

WILLIAM, REPEAT AFTER ME ---

I WILLIAM,

take thee RACHEL,

to be my wife.

To have and to hold,

in sickness and in health,

for richer or for poorer,

in joy or sorrow,
and I promise my love to you.

With this ring,
I take you as my wife,
for as long as we both shall live.

RACHAEL, REPEAT AFTER ME ---

I RACHAEL,
take thee WILLIAM,
to be my husband.
To have and to hold,
in sickness and in health,
for richer or for poorer,
in joy or sorrow,
and I promise my love to you.

With this ring,
I take you as my husband,
for as long as we both shall live.

[The Declaration and Kiss]

WILLIAM and RACHAEL, as the two of you come into this marriage uniting you as husband and wife, and as you this day affirm your faith and love for one another,

I would ask that you always remember to cherish each other as special and unique individuals.

That you respect the thoughts, ideas and suggestions of one another.

Be able to forgive, do not hold grudges, and live each day that you share it together -- as from this day forward you shall be each other's home, comfort and refuge, your marriage strengthened by your love and respect for each other.

Just as two threads woven in opposite directions will form a most beautiful tapestry, so too can your two lives merged together make a beautiful marriage.

To make your relationship work will take love.

This is to the core of your marriage and why you are here today.

It will take trust, to know in your hearts that you truly want the best for each other.

It will take dedication, to stay open to one another and to learn and grow together.

It will take faith, to go forward together without knowing exactly what the future brings.

And it will take commitment, to hold true to the journey you both pledge today to share together.

[Wine Blessing]

kiddish

The blessing over the wine, known as the kiddush, is a part of many Jewish celebrations and holidays. The word kiddush means sanctification, so as we recite this blessing, we symbolically sanctify this couple on their wedding day.

"Blessed are you, O God, Creator of the fruit of the vine."

[Candles]

A marriage brings together two individuals, with separate lives, family, and friends, to perform the lifelong pledge of uniting as one. These candles before us symbolize the union of your marriage. The two outer candles represent the two of you as individuals. Would the mothers of the bride and groom light the candles representing the individual families. The center candle, which you will kindle together, represents the unity which will continue to develop as you are married. The external candles will remain lit, to show that, even in your unity, you may also remain as individuals. (Groom and Bride light candle while music is played).

WILLIAM and RACHAEL, in so much as the two of you have agreed to live together in Marriage,

have promised your love for each other by these vows,

the joining of your hands and the giving of these rings,

I now declare you to be Husband and Wife.

[Breaking of Glass]

Stepping on this glass signifies remembering the past and moving to the future. You no longer belong to your parents' houses, but to your own.

As WILLIAM and RACHAEL break the glasses, I invite everyone to shout "Mazel Tov", which means "Congratulations" and "Good Luck".

Congratulations, you may kiss the bride.

It is with great pleasure, and my honor, that I be first to introduce,
Mr. and Mrs. WILLIAM DANIEL BERNSTEIN.
